Secrets and Postcommunions: Gift and Effect

On completing this unit, you can:

- recognize the ritual vocabulary and demonstratives of the Secret;
- follow sacramental cause and desired effect in the Postcommunion;
- distinguish the grammatical referents of quæ, hæc, and quam.

The Secret often moves from gifts presently offered to the unity, cleansing, or salvation they signify. The Postcommunion moves from reception to continuing effect. Both genres favor passive infinitives, optative subjunctives, abstract nouns, and pronouns whose antecedents must be found by gender and number rather than proximity.

In the 1962 books, the Secret is the proper oration said silently over the offerings before the Preface; the Postcommunion is the proper oration after Communion that asks for the received sacrament's continuing effect. These names identify liturgical position and function, not a particular sentence pattern. A referent is the person, thing, or idea to which an expression points. Antecedent matching begins with gender, number, and syntactic possibility, then tests whether the resulting sense fits the prayer.

An abstract noun names a quality, act, or state—such as unity, reception, or cleansing—rather than a concrete bearer. A sacramental effect is the reality the prayer asks the received or offered sacrament to bring about; it must be distinguished from the ritual gift, sign, or act that the sentence makes its grammatical cause or occasion.

1.1 The offered sign

Ecclesiæ tuæ, quæsumus, Domine, unitatis et pacis propitius dona concede: quæ sub oblatis muneribus mystice designantur.

Source: Missale Romanum (1962), In festo Sanctissimi Corporis Christi, Secreta.

The main object is dona; unitatis et pacis specifies the gifts, and Ecclesiæ tuæ is dative of recipient. Read propitius with the subject implicit in concede. Neuter plural quæ refers to dona, not to feminine Ecclesiæ or the singular genitives. sub oblatis muneribus presents the gifts under the outward offered elements; designantur is passive.

1.2 Reception as a sign of future fruition

Fac nos, quæsumus, Domine, divinitatis tuæ sempiterna fruitione repleti: quam pretiosi Corporis et Sanguinis tui temporalis perceptio præfiguratur.

Source: Missale Romanum (1962), In festo Sanctissimi Corporis Christi, Postcommunio.

fac takes accusative nos and passive infinitive repleti. The ablative fruitione expresses that with which the recipient is filled; divinitatis tuæ is its objective genitive. Feminine singular quam refers to fruitionem understood from fruitione. The subject of præfiguratur is temporalis perceptio; the genitives pretiosi Corporis et Sanguinis tui specify what is received.

1.3 A future feast approached now

Suscipiamus, Domine, misericordiam tuam in medio templi tui: ut reparationis nostræ ventura solemnia congruis honoribus præcedamus.

Source: Missale Romanum (1962), Dominica I Adventus, Postcommunio.

suscipiamus is hortatory or petitionary subjunctive. In the result or purpose clause, ventura solemnia is the accusative object of præcedamus: the worshippers go before the coming solemnities with fitting honors. reparationis nostræ defines those solemnities and congruis honoribus is ablative of means or manner. Do not make solemnia the subject merely because its form could be nominative.

1.4 Semantic families

Gift:

munus emphasizes a gift or duty; donum a gift; oblatio the offering; hostia the sacrificial victim.

Reception:

percipio/perceptio is full reception or taking; sumo/sumptio taking up; suscipio receiving or sustaining.

Effect:

purgo, mundo, emundo; reficio; reparo; proficiat; medela, remedium, fructus.

Sign:

significo; designo; præfiguro; mysterium; sacramentum.

Part II

Practice

CHAPTER 1

Transfer, retrieval, and application

1.1 The offered sign — transfer practice

Connection. The noun that signifies and the reality signified may occupy different syntactic slots.

Transfer task. On the lesson example, label finite verb, subject, objects, antecedents, and every term assigned to gift, sign, or reality.

Retrieval check. State which link is grammatical and which is a semantic classification.

1.2 Reception as a sign of future fruition — transfer practice

Connection. Postcommunion prose often relates reception now to a sought effect without collapsing their time or role.

Transfer task. Make a two-line now/future map for the lesson's Postcommunion: put each finite or non-finite form on the line supported by its morphology and governor.

Retrieval check. Identify one English tense choice that could blur the Latin relation.

1.3 A future feast approached now — transfer practice

Connection. An ambiguous neuter form must be resolved by government and clause structure before symbolism is discussed.

Transfer task. List every formal possibility for the lesson's ambiguous form, cross out those excluded by its governor, and explain the surviving relation.

Retrieval check. Why is thematic expectation weaker evidence than government?

1.4 Semantic families — transfer practice

Connection. A family ledger prevents one English gloss from flattening distinct acts of offering, receiving, cleansing, and enjoying.

Transfer task. Create four family entries from the lesson with lemma, printed form, construction, agent or participant, and local sense.

Retrieval check. Give one pair that should remain separate despite overlapping English translations.

Worksheets

CHAPTER 1

Unit III.4: Secrets and Postcommunions

Worksheet III.13 — Variant A

Worksheet ID: III.13

Focus: Gift, sign, and antecedent

Use: Follow gender and number, not proximity.

1. Text: Ecclesiae tuæ, quæsumus, Domine, unitatis et pacis propitius dona concede: quæ sub oblatibus muneribus mystice designantur.

Passage ID: III.13.1; exact source and collation state are recorded in the passage inventory.

Map the petition and identify the antecedent of quæ.

2. Why can quæ refer neither to Ecclesiae nor to pacis?

3. Change the petition to singular donum and adjust the relative clause.

4. Parse oblatibus and give its head and verbal family.

5. Answer in Latin: Quæ dona Ecclesiae concedi petuntur?

6. Write a two-clause Latin imitation asking that the gift of faith be granted and manifested in good works.

Worksheet III.16 — Variant DWorksheet ID: III.16Focus: Genre discriminationUse: Decide whether each clause looks toward offering or received effect.

1. Classify and justify: dona concede, quæ sub muneribus designantur.

2. Classify and justify: Fac nos sempiterna fruitione repleti.

3. For Hæc nos communio, Domine, purget a crimine, parse hæc, communio, purget, crimine.

4. Rewrite the preceding sentence for plural mysteria while preserving sense.

5. Create a four-column family for gift, offering, reception, and effect, with two Latin nouns in each.

6. Text: Munera nostra, quæsumus, Domine, propitius suscipe: ut corda nostra tua gratia renoventur.

Passage ID: III.16.1; exact source and collation state are recorded in the passage inventory.

State whether this is authentic quotation or controlled imitation, then parse it fully.

Part IV

Assessment

CHAPTER 1

Mastery assessment and record

Advance when: On an unseen Secret or Postcommunion, map the petition and its effects, resolve pronouns from morphology, and distinguish what the prayer offers, receives, signifies, or seeks without replacing grammar with theological inference.

Complete the assessment before opening the answer part. Record evidence, not confidence or elapsed time.

If the criterion is met: continue to EL-III.5, Lessons and Epistles.

If it is not met: Worksheets III.14 and III.15 remain optional reception/fruiting and solemnity practice.

Open this part only after completing the assessment record. Use the comparison and alternative-answer protocol in EL-GUIDE.

CHAPTER 1

Practice models and rubrics

The offered sign — model and rubric

Model / acceptable evidence. The model proves the parse from endings, agreement, and government, then adds semantic-role labels. A semantic association alone may not supply an antecedent or case.

Reception as a sign of future fruition — model and rubric

Model / acceptable evidence. A passing model distinguishes completed or present reception from the petition's desired fruition and cites the decisive forms. Natural English may vary, but it may not reverse that relation.

A future feast approached now — model and rubric

Model / acceptable evidence. The model begins with morphology, then identifies the governing word and required case or function. Theme can confirm a grammatical result but cannot override it.

Semantic families — model and rubric

Model / acceptable evidence. Every accepted entry cites a form and construction. The contrast must explain a difference in agency, object, temporal orientation, or genre role rather than merely list synonyms.

CHAPTER 2

Unit III.4: Secrets and Postcommunions

Solution III.13 — Variant A

Worksheet ID: III.13

Focus: Gift, sign, and antecedent

Use: Follow gender and number, not proximity.

1. Text: Ecclesiae tuæ, quæsumus, Domine, unitatis et pacis propitius dona concede: quæ sub oblatis muneribus mystice designantur.

Passage ID: III.13.1; exact source and collation state are recorded in the passage inventory.

Map the petition and identify the antecedent of quæ.

Answer / notes: Imperative concede, object dona, defining genitives unitatis et pacis, recipient Ecclesiae tuæ; propitius predicative with implicit divine subject. Neuter plural quæ refers to dona; they are mystically signified under the offered gifts, sub oblatis muneribus.

2. Why can quæ refer neither to Ecclesiae nor to pacis?

Answer / model: quæ is neuter plural nominative, matching dona; Ecclesiae is feminine singular genitive/dative and pacis feminine singular genitive.

3. Change the petition to singular donum and adjust the relative clause.

Answer / model: unitatis et pacis propitius donum concede: quod sub oblato munere mystice designatur.

4. Parse oblatis and give its head and verbal family.

Answer / model: Perfect passive participle ablative neuter plural agreeing with muneribus, from offero, offerre, obtuli, oblatum; related oblatio.

5. Answer in Latin: Quæ dona Ecclesiae concedi petuntur?

Answer / model: Dona unitatis et pacis Ecclesiae concedi petuntur.

6. Write a two-clause Latin imitation asking that the gift of faith be granted and manifested in good works.

Answer / model: Model: Fidei donum nobis, Domine, concede: quod in bonis operibus manifestetur.

Solution III.16 — Variant DWorksheet ID: III.16Focus: Genre discriminationUse: Decide whether each clause looks toward offering or received effect.

1. Classify and justify: dona concede, quæ sub muneribus designantur.

Answer / model: Secret-like: offered munera signify gifts being sought; the language moves from oblation/sign to grace.

2. Classify and justify: Fac nos sempiterna fruitione repleti.

Answer / model: Postcommunion-like: it asks for an enduring effect/fullness after reception.

3. For Hæc nos communio, Domine, purget a crimine, parse hæc, communio, purget, crimine.

Answer / model: hæc nominative feminine singular demonstrative agreeing with communio; subject of third singular present jussive subjunctive purget; nos object; a crimine separation. This is a constructed genre drill.

4. Rewrite the preceding sentence for plural mysteria while preserving sense.

Answer / model: Hæc nos mysteria, Domine, purgent a crimine.

5. Create a four-column family for gift, offering, reception, and effect, with two Latin nouns in each.

Answer / model: Model: gift donum, munus; offering oblatio, hostia; reception perceptio, sumptio; effect fructus, medela (other defensible families accepted).

6. Text: Munera nostra, quæsumus, Domine, propitius suscipe: ut corda nostra tua gratia renoventur.

Passage ID: III.16.1; exact source and collation state are recorded in the passage inventory.

State whether this is authentic quotation or controlled imitation, then parse it fully.

Answer / notes: It is controlled imitation, not cited Missal text. suscipe imperative with object munera nostra; propitius predicative; quæsumus parenthetical. Result/purpose ut ... renoventur, subject corda nostra, means/cause tua gratia.

Part VI

Scope and Sources

CHAPTER 1

Scope and Qualifications

1.1 Packet boundary

This is module EL-III.4, Secrets and Postcommunions: Gift and Effect, in Triptych's print-first Ecclesiastical Latin curriculum. It imports one authoritative lesson, transfer practice for its internal submodules, two selected worksheets, one local mastery assessment, and matching solutions. This is grammatical and lexical genre study, not a sacramental or theological exposition.

The unprinted worksheet variants remain course-owned extension material; their omission is intentional and is not a claim that the module exhausts available practice. EL-GUIDE owns the course-wide study method, pacing, lookup discipline, answer protocol, source classes, and advancement rules; this packet assumes that orientation and terminology taught in prerequisite modules.

1.2 Controlling records and local state

Course-wide research records own the edition, passage, answer, curriculum, and source decisions; the leaf's module map records this packet's selection and transfer practice. EL-GUIDE owns the corpus, normalization, translation, non-authority, review, and answer conventions that apply here. Claim-local qualifications remain beside the affected material; check received wording against the course-wide passage inventory.

Any installed snapshot is a working study held from release until its exact bytes and outstanding distribution gates receive separate authorization.

CHAPTER 2

References

The following works are the course's controlling corpus and reference aids. Project-composed explanation, translation, analysis, exercises, and models are distinguished from received wording under the convention stated in the Scope and Qualifications appendix. Short source passages are identified so that the learner can verify their wider context. The adjacent edition manifest and passage inventory record exact source roles, checks, access states, and known rights limits.

2.1 Primary corpus

- Catholic Church, Missale Romanum ex decreto SS. Concilii Tridentini restitutum, Summorum Pontificum cura recognitum, editio typica (Rome, 1962). A searchable presentation of the edition is hosted by the Holy See's Biblia Clerus project: <https://www.clerus.org/bibliaclerusonline/EN/gmb.htm>.
- A page-image scan of the 1962 typical edition is available through the Church Music Association of America: <https://media.churchmusicassociation.org/pdf/missale62.pdf>. Page images, rather than unsourced transcriptions, should decide doubtful punctuation or spelling.

- The Clementine Vulgate is the principal biblical comparison corpus. The public-domain 1914 edition edited by Michael Hetzenauer and its provenance are described at <https://www.sacredbible.org/vulgate1914/>.

2.2 Grammar and lexicography

- J. H. Allen and J. B. Greenough, New Latin Grammar for Schools and Colleges (1903), a donor-declared public-domain reference whose digital locator was not independently consulted during integration: <https://archive.org/details/allengreenoughsn01alle>.
- Charles E. Bennett, New Latin Grammar, 1918 revision, Project Gutenberg eBook 15665; public-domain text in the United States: <https://www.gutenberg.org/ebooks/15665>.
- Charlton T. Lewis and Charles Short, A Latin Dictionary (1879), searchable transcription: <https://logeion.uchicago.edu/lexidium>.
- Charles du Fresne, sieur du Cange, Glossarium mediae et infimae latinitatis, a donor-declared later-vocabulary aid whose digital locator was not independently consulted during integration: <http://ducange.enc.sorbonne.fr/>.

The underlying 1903, 1918, 1879, and 1883–1887 printed works are public domain in the United States. Digital transcriptions and interfaces retain their own terms and are cited as access tools, not relicensed or reproduced wholesale. The 1962 Missal, Scripture, official text, and other received wording retain their own status; see the scope appendix, research records, and final-page rights notice.

Classical reference grammars describe the inherited system but do not by themselves explain every biblical or ecclesiastical development. The advanced volume therefore distinguishes classical baseline, Vulgate usage, later Christian usage, and stable liturgical formula instead of labeling every difference an “exception.”

2.3 Citation convention

Missal passages are cited by liturgical location and text genre rather than by a page number that varies among printings. Biblical texts are cited by book, chapter, and verse. Historical authors are cited by work and section wherever possible. A learner preparing a formal commentary should verify each passage against the edition actually being used and record any variant. These references are not a claim that every historical-linguistic question can be settled by the listed school grammars and dictionary interfaces.
