PRELIMINARY NOTICE TO THIS TRANSLATION.

THE name so long familiar, of the Rev. Dom Laurence Shepherd, as Translator, cannot but be painfully missed upon the Title-page of this Volume.

He has, indeed, passed away to his reward, but his work of love still lives on. Up to the last, his heart was in this undertaking, whereby he hoped to reach souls, as effectually, from his seclusion here, as when thrown by obedience, in their midst: and in his last illness, he commended the zealous prosecution of this translation to the Right Rev. the Lady Abbess of Stanbrook, to be executed, by such of her Community, as she thought proper to select.

It would seem only in keeping with what we know so well, of the inclinations of Rev. Dom L. Shepherd, to take this opportunity of thanking the former Readers of this Work, for the sympathy and encouragement, they have long given to it,—a sympathy to which he was gratefully sensible, not on his own account, but because it testified to the increasing influence Holy Church was thus enabled to exercise, in England, in proportion as the inspiration of her
